You can play up to 4 players online at once. In case you forgot the story of the game (I did... for a few minutes), the story follows a certain newspaper reporter who wishes to attend a festival that involves the meeting of two goddesses: Ammy and Yukiko. There he is attacked by a ninja-like character who is revealed to be Ammy's twin sister, a spy sent to prevent the two goddesses from meeting. Q: python pygame - image in sleep() function I'm trying to use pygame to take a picture of a subject, and display it on screen. I have the following code: while True: event = pygame.event.wait() if event.type == pygame.QUIT: sys.exit() elif event.type == pygame.KEYDOWN: if event.key == pygame.K_z: pos = display.get_rect() capture_image.blit(pygame.transform.smoothscale(background, (dispWidth, dispHeight)), (pos.x, pos.y)) capture_image.convert() print("Z") elif event.key == pygame.K_SPACE: capture_image.blit(background, (dispWidth, dispHeight)) print("STOP") sleep(1) else: return True The problem is, I want the image to be displayed for a second before moving on to the next frame, but sleep(1) doesn't seem to do that. I want the image to be displayed every second, as long as the z key is held down. Thanks in advance. A: 82157476af
